LAND BUYERS-PRESENT PRICES.-At va rious times, for several months past, capitalists from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and other States, have travelled this State for the purpose of examining the lands offered for sale privately and through the various land agencies. These excursions have rather been of a "prospecting" character, we should judge, as comparatively few purchases have been made, so far as we have been informed. From reliable gentlemen who have conversed with some | what it purports to be. By enclosing a small of these parties on the subject, we learn that the prevailing opinion among them is that the price of land in Virginia will be cheaper when the existing stay law shall have ceased to operate; that hundreds of farmers will be unable to meet their indebtedness, and that their lands will be sold at low prices as a consequence.-This may be the case in some sections of Eastern Virginia, where slave labor principally prevailed; but such is not the case in the Valley. Our people are in a more flourishing condition, and the sacrifice of land among us will be restricted to the poor and valueless portion. The writer could name a number of farms in this county, which, some thirty years ago, were sold at from thirty to fifty dollars per acre, cannot now be purchased for double these prices. This enhancement in the valuation of land, not only in the Valley, but throughout the State, as shown by the several assessments since the construction of our Turnpikes and Railroads, has been steady and uniform; and those who value of the real estate of which John B. Paton wish to purchase may be assured that there is | died seized, and into whose hands the same has | hasten the growth of the hair or beard. Their no prospect of any decline in the price in the passed; and that said Commissioner may, if he assertions are false, as thousands of living witfuture. On the contrary, the presumption is, deems it necessary, give notice of the time and that when the Manassas Gap Railroad shall place of taking said account by publication once witness. But many will say, how are we to have been reconstructed, and our people shall have the facilities for marketing their commodities, the price of good land will rather advance than decline. This is a simple proposition, and every practical man will understand it.

To those, therefore, who wish to invest their surplus capital in the productive lands of our beautiful Valley-this "Garden Spot of Virginia," as it has been appropriately termedwe would say, now is the time. You can purchase cheaper now than you will be enabled to do hereafter. - Shenandoah Herald.

RECONSTRUCTED AND UNRECONSTRUCTED. The difference between the reconstructed State of Tennessee, under the rule of the pious Mr. Brownlow, and unreconstructed Virginia, under Gen. Schofield, is thus described by the contains all the best qualities of Peruvian Guano and Ground Bones. WM. H. IR WIN, historian of the late war, Mr. Swinton. Put him out.—An unlawful detainer case was summarily decided yesterday by the intervention of the military authorities, without awaiting the "slow process of the law's delay." One citizen, it seems, took possession et a stable adjoining his premises, and claimed by another. The latter claimant made complaint to Gen. Wilcox, who ordered the Chief of Police to restore possession to the complainant, peaceably if he could, forcibly if he must. The Chief executed his orders without difficulty, and the present holder rejoices in the possession of the disputed horse-house, albeit our stock of Cloths and Cassimeres, to which burg News.
